skin. The mention is usually accompanied by a suggestion that you get a new foundation, the implication being that the current one you have is one you've put up with because you didn't have a choice. Fair enough, that might have been what you were doing. But it's time to stand up and take some responsibility for your skin. Besides – if you're getting new foundation, it's likely you're going to be replacing your existing lipstick. Hickory the Hangdog There's something a bit like a chick flick about the traditional, albeit cliché, idea of a woman straightening her collar every day before hopping into a car to go into the office. Although it might have been one of the white collared, high-vis suits and blouses that adorned the covers of the magazines for decades, fashion editor, Jackie Smith, says: “The idea isn't to cover up, it's to look slimmer and more in proportion to the rest of your clothing.

“It
