RSA SecurID is a key security service that gives you multiple levels of information to help protect yourself, your organization, and its data. It provides many levels of security. The RSA SecurID Key Management System authenticates you through the use of a user-specific security token. A security token is a physical hardware device, such as a badge, card, or USB stick, that contains encrypted data about the user. The RSA SecurID Key Management System uses the token to authenticate you and your activities with your RSA SecurID, and it also keeps your cryptographic key protected. When you need to access a system or a protected resource, your security token will be used to provide proof of identity. You also can manage your tokens with the RSA SecurID Key Management System and prevent unauthorized use. You can use your RSA SecurID to access computers and access protected resources such as e-mail, websites, and databases. It also works on mobile phones, PDAs, and many other devices.

Description: You can use RSA SecurID technology for many types of authentication. For example, you can use RSA SecurID for access control and to establish user identity to gain access to systems and resources such as web sites, applications, servers, networks, and databases. RSA SecurID technology allows you to eliminate the need for passwords and provides secure authentication for workstations, laptops, mobile devices, and other computing devices. You can use RSA SecurID to log into websites, gain access to personal data, and perform e-commerce transactions. RSA SecurID is supported by RSA Security and is available in five versions: RSA SecurID Key Management System is a secure
